Mobile Army Surgical Hospital (M.A.S.H.) units are Army units which provide lifesaving surgical procedures to military personnel wounded in battle. The important work these doctor soldiers do was brought to the widespread awareness of the civilian world shortly after the Korean war. As opposed to rear hospitals which were commonly used in WWII, M.A.S.H. units were typically located near the front lines to reduce evacuation transport time, thereby greatly reducing mortality rates. The last M.A.S.H. unit was deactivated in 2006 and replaced with the Combat Support Hospital program. This 100% Lionel made and decorated 6464 sized box car is molded, decorated, and assembled in the USA. The car (1901210) features a stamped metal frame, metal brake wheel and die-cast sprung trucks.
